

Associate Veterinarian

We are currently seeking another full-time or part-time “cow vet” to join our team. Our field work is seasonal in nature, however, there is a good balance between clinical duties (preg-checking by U/S, bull breeding soundness evaluations, feedlot necropsies, etc.) and office duties (consulting, data analysis, research, etc.). We focus largely on preventive medicine, consulting, and crew training and are proud to say our clients have limited after-hours individual animal emergencies. We truly have the best of all worlds; progressive clients, LOTS of cows, and quality of life.

Required training:

- Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree (DVM, VMD, or equivalent) from an accredited veterinary school. We currently have three American veterinarians in our practice and can easily assist international applicants with work permits, relocation, etc.
- Eligibility for licensure through the Alberta Veterinary Medical Association.
- Post-graduate training and/or board certification are considered assets, but not required.

Desired experience:

New graduates are welcome to apply! Cattle handling experience and a keen interest in beef production are required. We have lots of great mentorship opportunities based on your primary interests. For the seasoned practitioner or applicant with post-graduate training, there is ample opportunity to specialize in feedlot health and performance data analytics, cow-calf consulting, nutrition and/or field research. We are currently conducting research projects on antimicrobial resistance, genetic markers for BRD, bovine coronavirus, lameness in the feedlot, advancing feed analysis technology, vitamin and mineral supplementation, among others. We regularly collaborate with veterinarians and epidemiologists at the University of Calgary and the Western College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Saskatchewan. There is also ample opportunity to teach for those interested in mentoring the next generation of cow vets!

Salary and benefits:

Our practice offers a competitive salary with bonuses and profit-sharing structure, mentorship, cell phone, full health benefits, continuing education allowance and professional dues. Veterinarians are granted 3 weeks paid vacation, 1 week for continuing education, and 1-week sick leave. We share on-call and holiday duties, ensuring that everyone gets personal time off.
